

Lisa Burnett

Founder and Director

As Founder and Director of the City of Light Christian Arts Center (CAC), Lisa Burnett brings the highest level of passion, focus, and professionalism to its operation. Her deeply held Christian values inform everything she does, from being a hands-on leader at the Center, to a highly effective professional as Administrative and Operations Manager at a non-profit organization committed to workforce development.

Lisa has an extensive administrative background that enables her to oversee the programs and initiatives undertaken at CAC. Her experience, coupled with devotion to the education, nurturing, and inspiration of young people deliver dynamic programs that change lives.

Her ability to collaborate with complimentary organizations creates powerful, positive transformation for high-school aged students transitioning into adulthood. Lisa and her dedicated staff go above and beyond to expose participants to the performing arts, principles and examples of leadership, financial literacy, valuable life skills, and more.

Aside from her work at CAC, Lisa is an MBA candidate at Robert Morris University, and a graduate of the Joseph Business School. She is an active member of the JBS Alumni Executive Team and finds fulfillment in volunteerism. Lisa is an excellent community role model and consistently strives to connect with people and organizations in the shared goal of inspiring, nurturing, and teaching youth and young adults.
